The 7-14 cover was opened roughly tearing the stamp and the 8-17 cover has a tear on the back that does not detract. However, the machine with the 8-20 "D" canceling die was not normally used without a dater hub to cancel 3rd class mail, so this usage is quite scarce.

Lot has the normal faults one would expect with material of this nature but majority of items are VG to VF. Another interesting discovery from this lot is that officials at London used 1c stamps on their Field Service postcards while all other offices used 2c stamps(?) Although selected from a flag cancel collection, these should have more interest to a military postal historian due to the military markings, censor markings and other interesting usages such as an OAS card to the U.S.A.
